⚠️ Important Notes on "Creer":

- ◆ Spelling Change: "i" → "y" to avoid double vowel

When two "i" sounds would appear together, Spanish uses "y" instead:

| Tense | Form | Reason |

|-----|-----|-----|

| Preterite 3rd person | creyó, creyeron | Avoid creió, creieron |

| Gerund | creyendo | Avoid creiendo |

| Present Subjunctive | crea, creas, crea, creamos, creáis, crean | Based on regular yo "creo" |

- ◆ Past Participle is Regular but needs accent:

creído (NOT ~~creido~~) — the accent preserves the stress on "i"

📁 Other Verbs with Same "i→y" Pattern:

| Verb | Gerund | Preterite (3rd person) |

|-----|-----|-----|

| leer | leyendo | leyó, leyeron |

| oír | oyendo | oyó, oyeron |

| caer | cayendo | cayó, cayeron |

| traer | trayendo | trajo, trajeron ⚠ irregular stem |

| construir | construyendo | construyó, construyeron |

💡 *Pro Tip:

Creer is often used with these structures:

- Creer en algo/alguien = to believe in something/someone

Creo en ti. (I believe in you.)

- Creer que + clause = to believe that...

Creo que es verdad. (I believe that it's true.)

- No creer que + subjunctive (in negative)

No creo que venga. (I don't think he/she will come.)
