⚠️ *Important Notes on "Ir":

◆ *The Most Irregular Verb in Spanish:

Ir is unique because it borrows forms from Latin verbs ire, vadere, and esse. Almost every tense is irregular!

Tense	Irregularity	Example
-------	--------------	---------

-----	-----	-----
-------	-------	-------

Present	Completely irregular	voy, vas, va, vamos, vais, van
--------------------	----------------------	---

Preterite	Same as ser (to be)	fui, fuiste, fue...
----------------------	------------------------------	------------------------------

Gerund	yendo (not ~~iendo~~)	estoy yendo
-------------------	--	----------------------

Past Participle	ido (not ~~ido~~ regular)	he ido
----------------------------	---	-----------------

Present Subjunctive	Based on yo voy	vaya, vayas, vaya...
--------------------------------	--------------------------	-------------------------------

! *Critical Preterite Note:

The preterite of ir is identical to ser:

- Fui a Madrid. (I went to Madrid.) → Ir
- Fui feliz allí. (I was happy there.) → Ser

👉 Context tells you which verb it is!

◆ Essential Structure: "Ir + a + Infinitive":

This is the most common way to express the near future (going to do something):

Structure	Example	Translation
----- ----- -----	Voy a + infinitive Voy a comer. I am going to eat.
Vamos a + infinitive Vamos a salir. We are going to go out.
¿Vas a + infinitive? ¿Vas a estudiar? Are you going to study?

◆ Regular Forms ✅ :

- Future & Conditional use the full infinitive → iré, iría (regular endings)

- Imperfect is regular → iba, ibas, iba, íbamos, ibais, iban

📖 Common Phrases with "Ir":

Phrase	Meaning	Example
----- ----- -----
ir a pie to go on foot Voy a pie al trabajo.
ir en coche/bus to go by car/bus Vamos en coche.
irse to leave/go away Me tengo que ir.
ir bien/mal to go well/badly ¿Cómo te va? (How's it going?)
¡Vamos! Let's go! / Come on! ¡Vamos al parque!

💡 Pro Tip:

Don't forget the personal a when going to a specific person:

- *Voy a la casa.* (I'm going to the house.)

- *Voy a ver a María.* (I'm going to see María.)
